The Centre of Research PROGEO, with the participation of a consistent number of University teachers who operate in the Geographic Science field with the support of researchers in Economics, Sociology and Statistics, has the following aim:

- Promote interdisciplinary research in planning land use, with focus on subjects such as: touristic, environmental, cultural and the migration in the Euro-Mediterranean area. This is also done through the preparation of research projects with an international vision;
- Promote a collaboration with private and public territorial structures, in order to prepare projects regarding economic and social development;
- Promote the exchange of teachers and graduates, both at a national and international level, with the aim of building a cooperation network with universities and centers of research. On a more profound level the aim is also focused on the realization of an international partnership with other organizations (belonging to the national, European community and international context), in order to promote professional advice, other collaborations and the activation of conventions.
- The above objectives are particularly aimed at the preparation of a synergy agreement between the North African Mediterranean countries and the Island of Sicily in order to establish and maintain mutual understanding.
